The following was before the Committee:

- Brochures from NiS+TS on Walking the Debris Field – At Turtle Grove and Towards Pier 6
- Presentation by NiS+TS

Elizabeth Taylor, Manager Culture and Events, introduced the members of Narratives in Space and Time Society to the Committee. They have been working over the past two years on various interdisciplinary creative research projects involving mobile media and walking. HRM had received $450,000 from Canadian Heritage for the creation of a website and physical marker project. As the CBC was already working on a website, it was requested that Canadian Heritage allow a portion of this money be put towards Narratives' development of an App. The tender for the physical marker project has been awarded.

Mary Elizabeth Lucca played a short video followed by a presentation to share her group's work with the Committee. This non-profit group was created in 2012 with the project "Walking the Debris Field" getting underway in 2013. Using GPS, walking and art pieces they create an interactive public form of expression exploring various locations and subjects. These public art walks include storytelling, music, dance and art installations which allow the participants to be in the physical spaces and see and feel how the Halifax Explosion affected and shaped the area at the time and continues to the present day. The group acknowledged the support of many organizations and neighbourhoods in making these events a success. The walks are well attended with numbers reaching 100. Participants receive a memento which ties into the theme of each walk. New walks are being researched and developed; most recently Turtle Cove and a nature walk highlighting the flora and fauna found both then and now. Other project highlights have been the Design and Build Free Lab's Psychogeographer's Table and the NSCAD symposium "Towards Explosion 2017- Perspectives on the Centenary of the Halifax Explosion"

The group then described their mobile software App and how it would be used to enhance both group and individual walks in Walking the Debris Field. They hope to have a companion website with extra information, stories and links and will run workshops for users of the App as it is launched. The goal is to have a soft launch of the App in July using beta testers from Dalhousie and have it ready for the public in September.

At the request of the Committee, the group clarified that the App will be free. The level of interest for these walks leading up to the centenary was discussed. The Committee was also interested to know if the walks would continue after 2017. Narratives have lots of ideas for future projects and walks and continue to collaborate with their many partners, for example they hope to publish an anthology reviewing this 4-year project. The Chair thanked the group for the presentation and asked how the Committee might be able to help. Mary Elizabeth concluded by inviting the Committee to attend their event at the Dalhousie Art Gallery in October.

8. INFORMATION ITEMS BROUGHT FORWARD – NONE

9. REPORTS/DISCUSSION

9.1 STAFF

Elizabeth Taylor, Manager Culture and Events, updated the Committee on the reception being planned. It will be held at St. Joseph MacKay School. The gym can accommodate 300-400. The site was chosen as it is close to Fort Needham. There will be involvement from the children including a display of their mosaic art project. The guest list is being generated and 750 invitations are being printed.

Committee members asked where the public can access event information as they have received many questions about scheduled events. Community events will be found at <https://100years100stories.ca> and a link will be placed on HRM's site to direct people there. HRM is hosting the Commemorative Event which is open to the public where 800-900 are expected to attend. There may be another city event at the library and Elizabeth will look into this further.
